- Welcome! Opening prayer, praise reports
- FCCI news/update
- Today's topic: Are you truly trustworthy?

Whoever can be trusted with very little can also be trusted with much, and whoever is dishonest with very little will also be dishonest with much. --Luke 16:10

For content at our meetings this fall, I'm going to use the topics of keynote addresses and breakout sessions during the recent FCCI global conference. I'm going to begin with the message on the "Seven Attributes of Trust" shared by Jack Lannom, President of People First in Florida (www.JackLannom.com). Studying the life of Jesus, Jack has identified seven characteristics of Christ that we can reflect:

- Character
- Competence
- Confidence
- Caring
- Communication
- Consistency
- Commitment

Let's learn these seven attributes the way Jack taught them, then discuss how they apply to us in our work, home, church and community. One cool takeaway is that these attributes are easy to teach to our children, grandchildren and others!

Evaluate yourself from 1 (weak) to 10 (strong) in terms of being trustworthy.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Why did you give yourself this rating?
What benefits might you enjoy by being more trustworthy?
What specific actions can you take to become more trustworthy?
